About RLBCAU

The Rani Lakshmi Bai Central Agricultural University was established as an Institution of national importance in 2014 under Department of Agricultural Research and Education (DARE) and named after Rani Lakshmi Bai. The mission of the University is to be a centre of excellence in teaching, research and extension education in the field of agriculture and allied sectors. The University aims to develop sustainable farming systems for improving productivity and profitability in agriculture and allied sectors and also train the farmers and extension functionaries for the effective dissemination of advanced agricultural technologies particularly in Bundelkhand region.

Salient features of training

- Several hands-on lab sessions are emphasized as part of the program
- Lectures and practicals by expert faculty members
- A thorough understanding of the instrument and its techniques as well as exposure to it
- Enrollment is limited to enable one-on-one interactions
